7 Full 1 Tagged 1 Partial 2 Snippet 1 Unavailable	nostalgia, ULTRA. (Triptape)	(??/??/2009) Frank joins Odd Future. (02/16/2011) Nostalgia, ULTRA. officially releases.			In late 2009, Breaux had signed a contract with Def Jam Records as a solo artist. He was initially unable to build a relationship with the company. As a result, Breaux decided to join rap collective Odd Future. Breaux had silently started work on an album under Def Jam's nose. Originally slated for a July 4th, 2010 release under the name "Triptape," it was delayed for an unknown reason. While working on the album, Breaux had decided to adopt a new stage name, "Frank Ocean." After seemingly no promotion, "Nostalgia ULTRA." was released online for free in February 2011. Plans were made with Def Jam to release the album as "Nostalgia, LITE.", a 7 track version of the album with many songs removed and new songs added in their place. Plans fell through and Frank began work on his next album.

In February 2011, directly after Nostalgia, ULTRA, Ocean began writing new songs with Malay, a producer and songwriter who then assisted him with recording Channel Orange at EastWest Studios in Hollywood. Rather than rely on samples as he had with his mixtape, Ocean wanted to approach sound and song structure differently on the album. Channel Orange is the debut studio album by Ocean. It was released on July 10, 2012, by Def Jam Recordings. The lyrics on the album eventually led to Ocean coming out as gay on his Tumblr page in 2012.

3 Full 0 Tagged 1 Partial 4 Snippet 12 Unavailable	Upcoming	(08/02/2020) Ryan Breaux passes away (Ongoing)						In early 2020, the rollout of Frank's PReP+ project is cancelled due to COVID-19 and the death of Frank's brother, Ryan. Frank stayed almost radio-silent about his next project until headlining for Coachella 2023. He was later seen with cameras and music equipment across different countries, seemingly filming a documentary. Frank also released Blonde vinyls and posters on December 17th, 2022. Both posters came together to show a message telling the reader "The Recording Artists has since changed his mind about the singles model, and is again interested in more durational bodies of work," seemingly distancing his new work from the singles released in 2019-2020. Sessions are known in Miami, Amsterdam, and Austin with more sessions most likely recorded.

Special thanks to sbl for their work on the original tracker and thanks to isak, noa & Free The Robots for their invaluable help regarding the new version of the tracker, Jeen, Genesis, Techno, Paco, and ColbyJackChedda for their amazing work on the original version of the tracker

[1] This is how long the song or mixtape is.

A song does not need to be leaked to have a length added if the length of the song is known.

[2] The date that entry leaked, released or surfaced online

NOT the date that track/project was made

[3] KEY

OG -
Original version of a released or mostly finished track

Demo -
Demo of an unreleased or throwaway track

Ref Track -
A track someone makes that isn't intended for themselves, but rather to be used as a reference for someone else

Feature -
Throwaway where Kanye is just a feature

Remix -
Unreleased or unavailable remix by someone notable

Unknown -
We just don't know what it is. Usually only applies to Ref Tracks, Throwaways, and OGs

Other -
Does not fit with any of the other types of leaks listed here

Throwaway -
A track that was never released

[4] Snippet: Fraction of the track.
Partial: Longer than a stereotypical snippet, but not the full track.
Full: Entire track

Confirmed: Said to exist by people who have worked with Kanye in the past

Rumored: Said to exist by reputable people within the leak community. Please take with a grain of salt

[5] FLAC: 16/44.1kHz or greater
CDQ: 320kbps+
HQ 128kbps up to 320kbps
LQ: Anything lower
Recording: Recorded second hand

Most people can't tell the difference between FLAC, CDQ & HQ; LQ is noticeably worse.
